

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and system for assigning node numbers to network nodes in a network, the network being connected to a central device performing administration of the node numbers available for the network, wherein cases in which a request
5 message is received at the central device, the central device ascertains a free node number from the available node numbers and transmits the ascertained node number to an appropriate network node.

0955237.091701